1b. PRESENTATION OF CAPITAL PROJECT

Dr. Starr provided the public with detailed information on the October 6, 2005 Capital Project vote. His presentation included the scope and cost of each proposition and also included the financial impact to taxpayers. Following his presentations, individuals had the opportunity to ask questions. Concerns were voiced about the District asking residents to pay more taxes for the proposed renovations/construction versus paying more taxes during the next budget development process. The preference was to pay taxes to keep teachers, not to do repairs.

David Allardice, the district's financial advisor explained that the "pots" used to distribute financial aid to school districts by SED are separate and distinct. The district will get no more aid if the repair costs are paid for from operating aid – the funds used to support program and staff. Taxpayers would have to pay for the entire cost of repairs if those expenses are made part of the regular budget. The district qualifies for 95% aid on repairs and construction authorized by voters in a capital project because it is a consolidated district. This is an advantage to taxpayers to get repairs/construction completed for 5% of the total cost. There is no other state aid reimbursement program of this type.

Another concern was the fact that the work contained in Proposition #2 was proposed a couple of years ago. At that time the Board decided not to present it for a vote. It is now being reintroduced to taxpayers. Why?

It was one speaker's opinion that due to declining enrollment in the district and there was no need to add classrooms at the High School, or move the District Administrative Office to Florentine Hendrick Elementary School and add classrooms to that building.

Dr. Starr was asked what the district was doing to stabilize the tax base and attract new businesses and families to the area. He responded that the best thing the Board can do is provide a quality education. Mr. Humbert added that safe, well-maintained educational facilities will help.

Dr. Starr thanked everyone for attending the meeting and invited everyone to Room 210, where the meeting would continue.
