5a.b. CAPITAL PROJECT

Douglas Bell led a discussion of the Capital Project committee meeting. The committee has reviewed the input from public meetings, letters, emails and phone calls to Board Members and to the Superintendent. The Board has decided to put up for vote on April 29, 2003 a smaller project that consists of maintenance, repair and safety items. The total cost of the revised project is $1.7 million.

David Allardice, a financial advisor for the district, explained the options that the Board has to choose from for funding capital projects.

5c.HIGH SCHOOL COURSES

High School Principal Bob Ceccarelli prefaced a presentation by High School teachers by telling the Board that he put out a request to his teachers to provide him with outlines of additional courses that may be offered at the High School starting in September 2003. In an effort to continue with no study halls, High School teachers presented some new elective courses for the Board's consideration.

Business teachers, Elaine Peeters and Tammy Anderson and Technology Teacher Brian LaValley proposed a course titled, Web Page Design and Management. The course would be open to students in grades 9-12 and would teach students the elements of web page design and management.

English teacher, Kelley Shipley presented two elective courses; Book Creation and Illustration, and Theatre Design. Book Creation and Illustration would allow students to study the methods used to create the text and illustrations for various audiences. They would create their own book as part of the course.

Theatre Design would expose students to different plans and require them to study the art of set design. They would read and act out literature and design sets for plays that they read.

Technology teacher, Brian LaValley spoke of a proposed course titled, Digital Photography. The students would have an in-depth study of digital cameras and photo editing in order to produce quality prints.
