

General Information

The Williamson Central School District is committed to lifelong learning for all members of the school district. In keeping with this, a variety of training opportunities will be presented for teachers again this year.

Teachers can take in-service classes for salary credit. For every 15-clock hours of in-service training that a teacher participates in, twenty-five dollars ($25.00) will be added to the base salary. This becomes a permanent part of the base salary.

In addition, new teachers who are required to have two additional staff development experiences by the end of the probationary period can use in-service courses to fulfill this requirement. Courses that are at least three (3) sessions long can be considered as one staff development experience.

General guidelines for in-service include the following:

1. A calendar of in-service offerings will be available for teachers to select.
2. Teachers are asked to register for courses no later than January 27, 2003.
3. In-service sessions will run from 3:30 to 5:00 pm.
