

DIAGNOSTIC SERVICES and THERAPEUTIC SERVICES

Evaluations in the area of psychology, psychiatry, behavior, neurology, orthopedics, vision, speech and language, hearing, learning disabilities, medical conditions, etc. are important for the appropriate delivery of services for people with disabilities. These services can be located at hospitals and clinics that deliver these services to the general public as well as at specialized clinics serving just the disabilities community.

Once a diagnosis is made and therapeutic services are suggested, these services can be obtained in a number of locations. They can be located in hospital rehabilitation units, through private therapists and through private not-for-profit agencies or state sponsored agencies. Payment methods for these services can be as varied as no fee for services to individuals paying the whole cost and insurance paying part or all of the cost.
